ABOUT THE SEMINAR

In 1937, at a conference in Wardha, Mahatma Gandhi planted the seed of 'Nai Talim' to improve the education system. Gandhi felt a need to refute the education system at the time of British Rule. For him, education was a medium to combat the dominant social division of 'untouchability' associated with caste-based vocations, such as spinning, weaving, basket-making, leather-work, and pottery. Mahatma Gandhi's new model of education was directed toward his alternative vision of the social change. He strongly believed that education and work were not separate. The concept of Nai Talim also symbolizes the values of dignity of labour, self-sufficiency and independence.
